

A world of opportunity with EDP Open

At EDP Open we publish a suite of international high quality Open Access journals and partner with learned societies, publishers and academics to create opportunities from Open Access.

Expertise

EDP Sciences has almost a century's experience of publishing journals, books and magazines. EDP Open continues this tradition, applying our knowledge and global resources to launching and developing successful Open Access publications.

Shared values

EDP Open is a mission-driven publisher, owned by learned societies – committed to accelerating scientific progress. We pursue openness, collaboration, quality and integrity through our business practices.

Individual attention

There are many ways to apply Open Access from Green through to Gold. At EDP Open we'll work with you to identify the best route forward for you and your organization.

Your Open Access partner

Our services

Strategic guidance and business development

We use our expertise and flexibility to help our partners realise the potential of Open Access for the communities they serve and build on the success of their publications for the long-term.

Editorial excellence

The discerning quality of the content we publish is the primary focus of our editorial team. Their expertise ensures our partner publications are of the highest standard, while authors experience a quick, efficient and easy publication process.
